Technical & economical assistance

Why you should invest in Peru?

- Peru is a large country with a relatively small population, concentrated in any centres and in the coast region.
- The population is in comparison with other countries very young and continuous growing.
- The rich natural resources of the country are concentrated in the large mountain and jungle regions of Peru – the most of them characterized by difficult and still low developed infrastructural conditions.
- This rich sources of minerals and other raw materials generates a need for infrastructural development in all dimensions, vial, energetic, communication etc.
- The indicators of the economical growth for Peru are very high, in the growing rate Peru has the 24th place in the world ranking, a value very high above of the values of the developed countries.
- Peru has a stable annual average growth of 10 percent per year over the last 10 years, and the economic prognostics of Peru are very good for the next years.
- The Peruvian government has credit confirmations in a huge amount from international private and institutional organisations with the target to improve the infrastructure in the raw-material rich areas, permitting so the extraction activities.
- Many of the credits for the infrastructural development should be executed over the regional and local administration. The decentralized administrative structure of Peru is in any cases an obstacle to execute the assigned budget in the established time frame.
- The gap is the incapacity to execute the assigned budget as consequence of the lack of technical capacity to execute the outstanding construction activities.
- We are able to build the bridge between local administrations, private investors and national institutions.

Our objectives

Our world is changing in every day - and is always becoming smaller – it's faster today to fly from Madrid to Lima as to crosses by Spain car - you can call this globalization.

One example case

Especially Spanish enterprises are trying to penetrate the Peruvian Market in the last years. For the construction market in Peru is this also valid. This is a multi-million market with a huge volume for infra-structural works.

The difficult internal structure of the Peruvian state makes difficult to materialize such investments, requiring many permits and statements of governmental institutions, where are intervening many persons and institutions. To speed up this processes they are using connections – in Peru many people knowing “anyone who can speed up the decisions”.

Many of this projects are failed, partially with elevated costs. Firmed contracts are many cases existent, but without any real success in the practical economic activity, each time there are new obstacles and permits left to supply.

Also with own offices in Lima any enterprises are not able to smash the Gordian knot.

We have the experience and the knowledge to open this ways and to get the set of the required documents in a rational time frame and a high quality.
